

These regulations have been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency. Training providers approved to present these Nebraska disciplines follow a model accreditation program and issue a certificate that is accepted nationwide.